A. SIMONSON,

WARNING FROM MR. CHOATE.

HOW REPUBLICANS SHOULD USE THE VICTORY.

At the dinner which Herbert Booth King gave to Senator Lexow at the Waldorf Tuesday evening the speeches, one and all, were witty, interesting and eloquent. The speeches of Senators Lexow and O'Connor referred more especially to the great vic-tory last November as a Republican victory, and Republican lines by the incoming Legislature on the and that whatever work would be performed by that body, whether good or bad, would be charged found myself, it would be but a last could a short occasion. Mr. Chairman, you have found a short etcut to the affections of your fellow-citizens. You have fiscovered that the pyloric orifice is the shortest road to the hearts of men. And I have been wondering since I came here to-night what was the final cause of this banquet—why you find it desirable to feast the Lexow Committee.

Well, I can imagine one reason, after the reign of terror that they have exercised over this city for the last three months. We are saved from their personal investigation. (Laughter.) Have you taken anything? If you have, you are in danger from them, whether it is a basket of fruit or a brownstone mansion. If you have taken anything, look out for the terrors of their wrath. And I know one man in the city that, however long they may sit, and however far they may search, is safe from their Senatoria! Investigation. Having had their united legs under your mahorany, you have no reason to fear their person. (Laughter.)

The recent events that have happened in this city and State have impressed me more than anything else with the fleeting and shifting nature of political success. How one set of men vanish before the rawing fame of another! The State of New-York has a ways been represented and governed by some kind of a junta. We have had, only the last three months, as hig four whose names were dominant, whose power was unbridled. They were our friends Senator Warner Miller, Senator Frank Hiscock, Chauncey M. Depew and—who was the fourth? (Laughter.) Ah! It was one of these haysed statesmen. It was the bland and childlike statesman from Tioga. And now they have vanished.

ANOTHER FOUR.

ANOTHER FOUR. We have another four, and such a four! No State, no city could boast of such another. Who are they? Parkhurst, Lexow, Goff and Strong. (Applause.) And I think that the Council of Ten in Venice never ruled public sentiment more rigidly than they to-day rule the opinions and sentiments of the people in this city. What a four they are! Dr. Parkhurst! What a great and venerable name he has made for

What a great and venerable name he has made for himself in the short space of two years! Coming down here an unknown country clergyman, an absolute stranger in this city, what one single element is it in his character that has made him to-day a more famous, a more imposing figure in this city or State than any others?

It is nothing but that sublime courage and absolute unselfishness with which he has been able to devote himself to the great work he undertook.

Now, let me say one word about Mr. Goff. I hope it won't make him blush. I never knew any man in our profession in America to make so rapid a rise into fame as Mr. Goff has done. (Applause.) I recall vivility the circumstance of our first meeting. Will Mr. Goff allow me to tell it?

Well, about a year or a little more than a year ago, Mr. Goff called upon me in distress. He had incurred the wrath of one of our great magistrates, the eminent and local-lived Recorder of the city of New York. In the brave discharge of his duty he had incurred the judicial wrath and was threatened with the judicial vengeance. And he did me the honor to ask me to stand by him amid the threats

MASS-MEETING TO PROTEST AGAINST THE OUT-RAGES COMMITTED IN TURKEY TO BE HELD NEXT TUESDAY.

It was decided yesterday by the committee having the matter in charge to postpone the mass-meeting to be held in Chickering Hall next Monday evening, for the purpose of recording the pro test of the citizens of New-York against the recent butchery of Armenian Christians by the Turkish troops, until the evening following. It is expected that the meeting will be of a thoroughly representative character. President Seth Low, of Columbia College, has been asked to preside and the list of speakers will include the Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, the Rev. Dr Lyman Abbott, the Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford, the Rev. Dr. David H. Greer and others. It is understood that Bishop Potter will address the meeting, if his engagements will permit of his presence. In connection with the subject of the Armenian massacre, the Evangelical Alliance for the United States has decided to bring to the notice of the President the exact condition of things as they exist in Turkey to-day. In order to bring the subject directly before the Government, the Executive Committee of the Evangelical Alliance, sisting of the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Stoddard, William E. Dodge, R. R. McBurney, the Rev. Dr. George W. Wenner and the Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong, have appointed a committee to wait on the Presi-

have appointed a committee to wait on the President and have sent the following letter to the missionary societies having representatives in Turkey, asking their co-operation and assistance:

"The Evangelical Alliance for the United States proposes to send a commission to Washington to present a petition in person to the President or Secretary of State, in behalf of the United States missions in the Ottoman Empire. Protestant worship has been suppressed in certain regions of late, in violation of religious liberty and of treaty rights, and the fixing of public attention upon existing conditions in Turkey seem to constitute this a favorable time for urging more adequate consular representation and a more vigorous insistence on the right of religious liberty.

"It seems desirable that all the American missionary societies at work in the Turkish Empire should co-operate in sending representatives to Washington. Will your society appoint a commission for that purpose?"

An incident in the war occurred at Colon, when a steamer with rebel prisoners in charge of Government troops came into the port. A lighter loaded with concealed rebels came alongside and they swarmed up the sides of the steamer, overcame the guards and liberated the prisoners. At Lima the Oroya Railroad was in the hands of the insurgents, under General Pierolas, and the only railroad running was that between Lima and Callao. The Government fitted up a train with Gatling guns and put 2,000 soldiers on it, with the intention of making an attack on the Montaniros. A wash sale is a fictitious In the complaint against Mr. Aub it was charged that he bought and sold his own stock. Mr. Aub is a specialist in Erie preferred, and his suspension was not thought likely, when the same kind of transactions have been a regular part of the Sugar Trust's manipulation of the market, and nothing has been done to stop it. The suspension will, it is hoped, be followed by some aggressive work by the Governing Committee against the people who so shamefully manipulate the stock market. If the governors of the Exchange have watched the audacity of the Sugar Trust in its trading on the Exchange, they cannot but know that a company whose whole capital stock is twice

The conviction of James Bly, an expressman, of No. 141 East Twenty-eighth-st., in the Court of yesterday, Justice Koch preslding, was the end of an important and s what picturesque case of violation of the election on last Election Day. Bly is a typical Tammany heeler, short, thick, red-faced white-halred. He was on duty on Election Day at the pull of the Sixth Election District of the XIIth Assembly District, and voted early. Instead of leaving the inclosure behind the rail, however, he remained within it, and busied himself in whispering with voters and in other electioneering practices. Among the watchers present were Robert Underwood Johnson, of "The Century" staff, and Ernest Ingersoll, a contributor to called attention to Bly's behavior, and brought out the fact that he held a certificate as a Tammany challenger, which gave him no right to be within the guard-rail. He was ordered out, and after much bluster went, but returned or endeavored to return several times in the course of the day, al-

MRS. SAMUEL VERNON DEAD. The death of Mrs. Samuel Vernon, which oc curred at her home, No. 201 Lafayette-ave., Brook-lyn, on Monday last, has brought deep bereavement to numerous relatives and friends and a sense of personal loss to thousands of others who in one way or another have come within the influence of her singularly beautiful and useful life. Her malden name was Martha Adeline Richardson, and she was born at Danvers, Mass., the daughter of that Captain Edward Richardson whose daughter of that Captain Edward Richardson whose name is identified in this city with so much religious and philanthropic work. In her girlhood the family removed first to New-York and then to Brook-lyn. In the latter city she was married to Samuel Vernon, a well-known and esteemed member of the paper trade of New-York. On his death, which occurred while she was yet a young woman, she renounced most of the pleasures of society and devoted herself to the care and education of her six young children and to the promotion of various religious and charitable enterprises. For more than twenty years she was one of the managers of the for Friendless Women and Children, She was for a long time prominently associated with the direction of the Brooklyn Baptist Home, and secured the endowment of a room therein by the Washington Avenue Baptist Church, of which she and her family were members. The great annual Orphan Asylum Fair and innumerable other good works also received much of her means and attention. But the enterprise to which she most espe-cially devoted herself is the Edward Richardson Memorial Mission. This is a non-sectarian but evangelical institution, for both religious and charitable work, founded by her father and conducted for some years by him and by her husband. It stands in what was once known as Jackson's Hol-low, formerly the most equalid and vicious part of the city. The mission chapel had to be built of iron, with heavy iron window shutters, and when-ever opened had to be guarded by the police, to save it from being wrecked by the lawless hoodiums of the Hollow. In late years the character of the place has grealy improved, and it is now an attractive residence quarter. For nearly twenty years Mrs. Vernon was the chief financial support of the mission, and the most constant and earnest laborer in its behalf. She conducted a class in its Sunday-school, and was a veritable Lady Bountful to the many children who came thither from homes of poverty. Mrs. Vernon's health had been poor for several years, and for a considerable time before her death she was prostrated and was a great sufferer. She endured her affliction, however, with singular fortitude, and within a day or two of her death was actively engaged in planning and directing work for the mission.

She leaves six children—Samuel Edward Vernon, Frederick R. Vernon, Mrs. James A. Radeliffe, Mrs. P. G. Corning, F. Joseph Vernon and Miss Frances M. Vernon; also two grandchildren, Vernon Radeliffe and Vivian Vernon.

MR. MORION INSPECTS THE MANSION.

SOME ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE BEFORE JANUARY 1-GOVERNOR FLOWER'S COM-

PLACENT UTTERANCE.

Albany, Dec. 12.-Governor-elect and Mrs. Morton spent most of the forenoon at the Executive Mansion to-day. They inspected the mansion throughout, accompanied by Governor and Mrs. Flower, Capitol Commissioner Perry and Michael Delehanty, State Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Mr. Morton found that the mansion in its pres state would be inadequate for the needs of his family and servants, as accommodations would be needed for about fifteen people. Several alterations will be made, and among them will be the cutting up of the billiard room, which was the delight of Sen-ator Hill when he was Governor, into three sleeping facilities on the grounds, and Mr. Morton will therehire a private stable for a number of horses which he will have sent here from Rhinecliff.
